

Media Release

20 September 2017

The AAA Launches New Aviation Website – The Airport Professional

The Australian Airport Association (AAA) has developed and launched a new website ‘The Airport Professional’.

“The purpose of this website is to create a central platform to share industry content with the wider aviation community and stakeholders across Australia and keep participants up to date with the latest trends and case studies,” AAA CEO Caroline Wilkie said.

The content covers current industry topics; technical and safety issues; airport case studies; the latest technology; leadership and team development; infrastructure, terminal and route development; profiles of professionals in the sector; and regional airport topics.

“The Airport Professional will include articles from Steve Creedy who was the editor of the Australian’s aviation section for 17 years as well as the latest news from the aviation industry,” Ms Wilkie said.

New content on topics of interest to those across the industry will be uploaded each week and as the site develops it will include opinion and technical pieces.

“The AAA were looking for a way to increase the circulation of information and share the expertise of professionals in our industry,”

“We would like to invite all aviation professionals to submit articles to the AAA for consideration to be publication on the new website,” Ms Wilkie said.

The view The Airport Professional website visit <http://airportprofessional.asn.au/> or to submit an article, email editor@airports.asn.au.

END.

Media Contact:

Sharnee Parady
Communications Manager
0438 420 096
spardy@airports.asn.au